

Sara Papić

Curriculum Vitae

AOS: Philosophy of Language, Philosophy of Mind

AOC: Metaphysics

WORK EXPERIENCE

Postdoctoral Researcher at the NORSE Project, University of Milan

2026 – 2028

PI: Francesco Guala

EDUCATION

PhD in Philosophy and Human Sciences, University of Milan

2021 – 2026

Supervisor: Elisa Paganini

Dissertation title:

The Persistence of Indeterminacy: Contemporary Theories and Kripkenstein's Challenge to Representational Content

Note: 11-month pause (Apr. 2024 – Mar. 2025) due to maternity leave.

Visiting PhD Student, University of Stockholm

2022 – 2023

Tutor: Anandi Hattiangadi

Note: Funded by the Erasmus Traineeship programme

MA in Philosophy, University of Parma

2017 – 2021

Supervisor: Roberto Pinzani

Thesis title: Theories of Vagueness: Philosophical and Logical Approaches and Their Interplay

BA in Philosophy, University of Belgrade

2011 – 2016

Supervisor: Andrej Jandric

Thesis title: Lewis's and Sider's Argument for Mereological Universalism

PUBLICATIONS

- Why the qua Problem has not Been Dissolved: Reply to Deutsch. In Erkenntnis (2024).
DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1007/s10670-024-00802-x>
- Can Linguistic Correctness Provide Us With Categorical Semantic Norms? In Phenomenology and Mind, 24 (2023).
DOI: 10.17454/pam-2413

PRESENTATIONS (PEER-REVIEWED)

16th SIFA Conference, Turin

Aug. 2025

Why Phenomenal Intentionality Theories Cannot Account for Identity Between Contents

7th PLM Conference, Prague

Aug. 2024

15th SIFA Conference, Alessandria

Sep. 2023

Why There Can be no Dissolution to the Qua Problem

Sign-Language-Reality Seminar, University of Warsaw, jointly with the Polish Semiotics Society

Jun. 2023

Why There Can be no Dissolution to the Qua Problem

San Raffaele Summer School in Philosophy, Vita-Salute San Raffaele University

Sep. 2022

Can Linguistic Correctness Respond to the Normativity Argument?

Salzburg Conference for Young Analytic Philosophy, Salzburg University

Sep. 2022

Linguistic Correctness as a Response to the Normativity Argument

AWARDS

- SIFA Young Scholar Prize 2025, category: Philosophy of Mind. Awarded for the paper “Why Phenomenal Intentionality Theories Cannot Account for Identity Between Contents.”
- Runner up for the SIFA Young Scholar Prize 2023, category: Philosophy of Language. Awarded for the paper “Why There Can be no Dissolution to the Qua Problem.”

CONFERENCE ORGANISING

Co-organizer

Mar. 2025

University of Milan – Big mistake! Big! HUGE! Milan Graduate Conference 2025

Co-organizer

Dec. 2023

University of Stockholm – 8th Stockholm Philosophy Graduate Conference

Co-organizer

Sep. 2023

University of Milan – The Foundations of Representational Content

Co-organizer

Sep. 2022

University of Milan – The Number of Things

Co-Organizer

Jun. 2021

University of Parma – It's Impossible!

OTHER ACADEMIC EXPERIENCE

Affiliation with the “Beyond Reductionism” project, Stockholm University.

2022-2025

PI: Anandi Hattiangadi. Funding body: the Swedish Research Council.

“Work in Progress” PhD seminar organizer, University of Milan

2022 – 2024

Master’s Student Tutor, University of Parma

2019 – 2021

(Orientation and assistance for graduate students.)

Referee for Analysis, Argumenta, Canadian Journal of Philosophy, Synthese, and Philosophical inquiries.

TEACHING

Guest Lecturer at the University of Milan (Master's)

2021 – 2022

- Teorie del Linguaggio e della Mente (Elisa Paganini)
(Graduate course on the philosophy of mind and language)

Student Tutor under the POT project, University of Parma

2019 – 2020

- Introduction to Logic (20h supplementary course)
- Introduction to Critical Thinking (20h supplementary course)

The POT project is funded by the Italian Ministry of Education. The courses were aimed at philosophy undergraduates.

Assistant Lecturer at the University of Belgrade

2015 – 2016

- God and Causation in Medieval and Modern Philosophy
(tutorials under the supervision of prof. Vladan Đorđević)

LANGUAGES

Italian	Native
Serbian	Native
English	C2
German	B2